

Gustafson said that after Thanksgiving the band will depart for London for three performances, as well as one BBC radio program and TV program.

Lombardo and Mary Ramsey will be the opening act for Tuesday's concert, which starts at 8 p.m. Butch Amiot also will play with Ms. Ramsey and Lombardo, who also is going to perform with the Maniacs when they play their early songs.

"John will join us on stage when we do songs from that period. It's been fun going through the old songs again," Gustafson said.

As far as the future is concerned, the band will begin writing new material.

"After the first of the year we are going to get back together and start writing songs for the next album," he said.

Those attending the concert are urged to bring canned and boxed protein foods.