

Lockers For Britain

Robin De Vere Green, center, a director of W. B. Bawn and Co., Ltd. receives locker operating procedure demonstration from George Niden, executive vice president, American Locker Co., Inc., left. Observing is William D. Creighton, American Locker Co., Inc., assistant vice president, who carried out marketing agreement negotiations on behalf of American Locker.

JUN 18 1973

English Firm Licensed In American Locker Deal

The American Locker Co., Inc., a subsidiary of AVM Corporation, has completed a contractual licensing agreement with the W.B. Bawn & Co., Ltd., Bury St. Edmunds, England. The Jamestown manufacturer is leading supplier of self-service, coin-operated checking lockers across the United States and Canada.

In making the announcement, George Niden, executive vice president of American Locker, said the agreement exclusively licenses the British firm to market and manufacture American Locker coin-operated checking systems throughout the United Kingdom and Ireland. Under the agreement, W. B.

Bawn & Co., Ltd. will initiate sales activities in the transportation and recreation markets of those countries. The British firm will begin to purchase, on a continuing basis, several major locker component parts produced by American Locker, Niden added.

W. B. Bawn & Co., Ltd., a steel fabricating, engineering and contracting firm, is presently the largest non coin-operated locker manufacturer and distributor in the United Kingdom and Ireland. Robin De Vere Green, a director of the firm, finalized agreement negotiations during a recent visit and tour of the American Locker facilities in Jamestown.