

DEC 12 1961

NEW ART METAL FILE—Art Metal, Inc. introduces its Model 2400 Postindex stand. This new concept in visible-record work stations is one in a series of systems innovations carefully designed to integrate conventional record keeping with current modern methods.

Art Metal Has New Concept In Record Work Stations

Art Metal, Inc., Jamestown, manufacturer of metal office furniture and equipment, has announced a new concept in visible-record work stations.

Their Model 2400 Postindex stand is one of a series of system innovations carefully designed to integrate conventional record keeping with current modern concepts. It provides, for the first time, a completely self-contained record control center in ten different combination models. Stated benefits include:

1. Reduced labor—all supplies, media, and inactive records can be stored right in the unit.
2. Space saved—the stand eliminates the need for separate desks, files and storage cabinets.
3. Lower investment—a one-unit, instead of a two- or three-unit, work station.

The Postindex 2400 Line is complemented by a wide variety of accessories and colors. Postindex equipment offers the widest range of card sizes available.