Butterflies' Opening Friday

A nine-performance run of the popular Leonard Gershe comedy "Butterflies Are Free" begins Friday night at Little Theatre of Jamestown.

The play deals with the struggles of a blind young man who sets himself up in an apartment in order to get away from his over-protective mother. A relationship with the young actress next door quickly develops and forms the core of the play.

The comedy was a Broadway success and has made a hit with audiences throughout the country because of its humor and underlying warmth.

William Blanchard and Cynthia Peterson will take the leads in the Little Theatre production while Melba Akin and Gary Casten appear in supporting roles.

Performances are set for 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The run continues with 8:30 p.m. shows April 3, 4 and 5, performances at 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. April 6 and at 7:30 p.m. April 7.

Reservations should be made by mail or phone.
