

Little Theatre Play

Depicting the lack of communication between father and son, this scene is representative of the Little Theatre's newest production, "I Never Sang For My Father." From left are Melvin Berg as the father, Doris Wilbur as the mother and T. W. Gunther as the son. The 8:30 p.m. performances will be presented Friday and Saturday of this week and next, with a 7:30 p.m. performance to be presented Sunday, May 11.

The Little Theatre's newest production, "I Never Sang For My Father" by Robert Anderson, will be presented beginning at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Second Street playhouse, Jamestown.

According to Marshall Dahlin, a representative of Little Theatre, the author uses the play to probe the alienation which can exist between father and son and which time and old age only deepen, despite the best intentions.

The play is to be the annual fund raising show to help maintain the Little Theatre building.

The local cast includes Melvin Berg, Doris Wilbur, T. W. Gunther, Melba Ritchie, Gail Kirchoff, Jack Riehm, Cecil Wilson, Carol Furman, Robert

Land and Dick Morganti. The play is being directed by Fredericka Woodard.

There will also be 8:30 p.m. performances Saturday of this week and Friday and Saturday of next week. A 7:30 p.m. performance will be given Sunday, May 11.

The box office will be open daily from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning today.
