

MAR 5 1982

Attempt Reorganization

director and vice president-secretary of Chautauqua Hardware Co.

In August 1979, the firm was recommended by the Chautauqua County Industrial Development Agency for a $137,500 loan to assist in financing a $388,000-expansion program to create about 15 new jobs and increase production by about 30 percent.

Combs said late last year the company was getting "a tremendous amount of contract business" and had established a number of showrooms nationally. He said these are intended primarily for architects, designers and interior decorators to demonstrate the company's ability to meet its varied needs.

The company president said at that time he foresaw 1982 sales doubling those of last year. He said the firm was having problems financing its backlog of orders which were at about the highest level in the plant's history.

son came up with some clutch steals coach Jerry Raigano put his team into